Narcotics Enforcement Techniques
Drug Tactics for Patrol Officers

May 24-25, 2010

Hosted by the North Tonawanda, NY. Police Department

A two day (16 hour) training program designed for law enforcement investigators, officers and supervisors. The training program will give officers the necessary tools to combat drug users and distributors within their jurisdictions by learning how to develop and utilize street sources and how to make an immediate impact in area with high amounts of drug activity.

Planning for and executing successful knock and talks on locations where drug activity is occurring will be detailed as well as other investigative techniques that can be utilized to get into residences that are actively promoting illegal activities.

Dealing with methamphetamine and its users will be covered as well as how to deal with both boxed and operational methamphetamine laboratories that may be discovered. Violence associated with drug users, specifically methamphetamine users, will also be detailed.

Street Gangs and their membership are active players in the drug world and information on how they operate, obtain and distribute their drugs will be covered in detail.

Drug Endangered Children and how to identify them and deal with them will be addressed as well as how to effect successful seizures of money and property for your agency.

The instructors for this conference have many years of investigative experience in the field of drug investigations and have a vast amount of knowledge to share with fellow officers.
